IN FROM THE COLD

AN innovative pilot project that targets people at risk of sleeping rough has helped to prevent 79 people from ending up on the streets in its first year.

'No First Night Out', which is run in partnership by Hackney and Tower Hamlets councils and the City of London, has now secured Government funding for another two years.

The project uses known risk factors – such as losing a job or health problems – to identify those in need of targeted support.

Once those at risk are identified, specialist officers work across public sector teams – as well as in health, legal and employment organisations – to give rapid, intensive support, such as mediation, emergency accommodation, or help to find accommodation in the private rented sector.

It is predicted that the 79 people it helped to find suitable housing would have gone on to sleep rough without the help of 'No First Night Out'. Fourteen different organisations, including the Council's housing needs service, Jobcentre Plus and Citizens Advice, were involved in referring people to the project in its first year.

Cllr Rebecca Rennison, Cabinet Member for Finance and Housing Needs, said: "It is sadly too easy for many people to end up rough sleeping: they may have had to leave a family or a partner's home, or they may have lost their tenancy due to rent arrears or a rent increase.

"'No First Night Out' is a fantastic project that means we can look out for these risk factors and give people the intensive, targeted support they need to stop them from ending up on the streets."

Residents are being reminded to contact Street Link if they are concerned about someone they see sleeping rough in the cold winter months. Street Link enables the public to alert local authorities about people sleeping rough in their area.

Mayor of Hackney, Philip Glanville, hoisted a flag celebrating London Living Wage Week with Cabinet Member, Cllr Carole Williams

Raising awareness

HACKNEY marked London Living Wage week by raising a campaign flag over Hackney Town Hall for the first time earlier this month.

The flag was hoisted by Mayor of Hackney, Philip Glanville, on 6 November following a celebration event for London Living Wage employers in the borough. It remained above the Town Hall until 12 November.

More than 30 local businesses attended the event held at Hackney Town Hall including employers which currently pay the London Living Wage and those aspiring to do so in the future.

Dr Andrea Werner, from Middlesex Business School, spoke about how small and medium-sized enterprises can make the London Living Wage work for them, while staff from Citizens UK and the Living Wage Foundation were on hand to provide advice and guidance to those who wanted to find out more.

The Council was formally accredited as a London Living Wage employer last year, cementing a long-standing commitment to pay the higher rate.

This means that everyone working for the Council – regardless of whether they are permanent employees, temporary, part-time, agency, or apprentices over the age of 18 – is guaranteed to receive at least the London Living Wage. The Council also ensures that contractors are awarded the London Living Wage, so over 800 more people are now benefitting from this rate of pay.

Mayor Glanville said: "I'm proud to represent an organisation that has been formally accredited as a London Living Wage employer.

"It is very important to me that we lead by example and to ensure that everyone working for us, including our new apprentices, receives a fair salary to help meet the spiralling cost of living in our borough and across London."

Cllr Carole Williams, Cabinet Member for Employment, Skills and Human Resources, added: "Not only does paying the London Living Wage help improve the quality of life and wellbeing of employees, but it's also positive for businesses, it helps them to become an employer of choice.

"It helps them to attract and employ good quality staff and, importantly, to retain them.

"We encourage Hackney businesses to become London Living Wage employers and see for themselves the difference it can make to both their business and their employees lives."

“Not only does it improve the quality of life for employees, it also helps businesses to attract good quality staff”

The new rate

THE London Living Wage rate has been set at £10.20 per hour. This is higher than the National Minimum Wage of £5.60, which rises to £7.50, depending on age. The rates are calculated annually by the Resolution Foundation and overseen by the Living Wage Commission, based on the best available evidence about living standards in London and the UK. Employers choose to pay the Living Wage on a voluntary basis.

Questions of sport

Event did not shy away from tough subjects

Sports stars past and present and broadcasters joined a panel to answer questions from the audience as part of The Great Sports Debate 2 event Photos: Ernest Simmons

A HOST of sporting stars came to the borough to take part in the Great Sports Debate 2 at Hackney Town Hall.

Hosted by the Council as part of its Black History Season, the 2 November event was attended by over 100 people and watched by hundreds more online via Facebook Live.

The panellists included Olympic silver medallist in taekwondo, Lutalo Muhammad; Vice-President of UK Athletics, Donna Fraser; NBA global broadcaster Benny Bonsu; and chief football correspondent for the Mirror, Darren Lewis.

The evening was moderated by Leon Mann, founder of the Football Black List. Alongside the debate, there was a showcase of work by celebrated photographer Ernest Simmons.

He said: "The Great Sports Debate was uplifting, informative and inspiring."

The panellists and audience discussed some of the difficult and complex issues in sport, including the FA's approach to racism, women in sport, and sports people getting involved with activism and political discourse.

Cllr Carole Williams, Cabinet Member for Equalities, added: "The Great Sports Debate really got everyone talking, helping to create a dialogue from which sustainable positive change in sport can come."

News in brief

Government instructs Council: Stop fortnightly Hackney Today

THE Government has instructed the Council to stop the fortnightly publication of Hackney Today from February next year.

The Council received the legal direction from Sajid Javid, Secretary of State for Communities and Local Government, on 6 November and is currently considering its response. The national 'Code of Recommended Practice on Local Authority Publicity', published in 2011, states council newspapers should be published no more than quarterly. The Council continues to publish Hackney Today fortnightly because of two main reasons: saving money on advertising statutory notices, and wanting residents to be well informed about services, events and opportunities in the borough.

The Council has a legal duty to publish statutory notices – such as proposed traffic measures and certain planning applications – in a newspaper. These are currently placed in Hackney Today.

Producing Hackney Today on a quarterly basis and paying to advertise statutory notices in the local press would cost an estimated £100,000 more than current production costs. The local press also has a far lower circulation, meaning fewer people would see the information.

Hackney Today focuses on stories about council services, initiatives and consultations, and community events and opportunities. It also provides space for local groups, charities and organisations to highlight their work. Much of this content is not covered in the local press.

Residents have told the Council they value Hackney Today for these reasons, as well as its role in celebrating diversity and promoting community cohesion in the borough.

It is particularly valued among older residents, disadvantaged groups, and people who have limited access to the internet and social media.

The decision on how to respond to the Government's direction is expected to be made at the Council's Cabinet meeting on 18 December.

Christmas trees and lights will be unveiled across the borough

Get ready for Christmas lights switch-on

PANTOMIME stars from Hackney Empire's 'Cinderella' will join the Speaker of Hackney, Cllr Soraya Adejare, to turn on the borough's Christmas lights in Hackney Town Hall Square on Mare Street.

The switch-on and Christmas countdown takes place on 26 November, at 5pm, and will include carol singing and music from Nostalgia Steelband.

Christmas trees and lights will also be unveiled across the borough on that day, with local markets such as Ridley Road lit up, alongside Christmas trees in Old Street, Dalston Square, Prince Edward Road and outside Stoke Newington Fire Station.

Cllr Adejare said: "I'm excited to join Hackney's residents as well as Hackney Empire's panto cast to help celebrate the start of the festive season with the annual light-switch on. I would encourage residents to come down and help join in the countdown to Christmas!"

Campaign seeks to support victims of domestic abuse Stay strong together

The 'Blooming Strong' campaign has the backing of the Council, police, health services and third-sector partner agencies

Contact us in confidence

If you are experiencing domestic abuse, contact Hackney's Domestic Abuse Intervention Service, or ask someone such as your health visitor, doctor, housing worker or social worker to refer you. If you are not ready to provide your details, the service is happy to speak to you about your experiences, explain any limits on confidentiality and offer information and advice. You can also contact the service if you are using violence and abuse and want to get help to stop your behaviour. Call: 020 8356 4458; e-mail: dais@hackney.gov.uk; or visit: www.hackney.gov.uk/domestic-violence. There is also a 24-hour free national helpline: 0808 2000 247, or 999 in an emergency.

THE Council is supporting UK charity Standing Together's 'Blooming Strong' campaign by signposting residents to the borough's domestic abuse support services.

The national campaign celebrates the strength of women who have survived gender-based violence and aims to encourage others to move forward and recover from domestic abuse.

It coincides with the International Day for the Elimination of Violence Against Women on 25 November, and the following 16 days of activism, calling for an end to violence and abuse that affects an estimated one in four women in their lifetime.

There will be a number of events in Hackney aiming to raise public awareness through the period, which ends on 10 December, Human Rights Day. This will include the symbolic gesture of presenting women across the borough with a single flower.

“We want to encourage victims of domestic violence to know that they have the strength and resilience to survive”

The Council's Domestic Abuse Intervention Service works closely with the police, health services and third-sector partner agencies to protect victims and bring perpetrators to justice, as well as raising awareness about how to recognise and respond to abuse.

Cllr Rebecca Renninson, Cabinet Member for Finance and Housing Needs, said: “The Council has a zero tolerance approach to gender-based violence and is clear that there is no space for violence against women and girls in Hackney.

“We take a holistic approach to tackling domestic abuse, working closely with victims of abuse, partner organisations and women's charities to help end the cycle of abuse.

“It can be very difficult for people to tell others that they are suffering. By presenting a variety of women with a single flower, we want to encourage victims of domestic violence to know that they have the strength and resilience to survive, and when they're ready, we're here for them.”

News in brief

Mayor calls for roll-out of Universal Credit to be delayed

THE Mayor of Hackney, Philip Glanville, has written to the Secretary of State for Work and Pensions calling on the Government to delay the roll-out of Universal Credit. It is due to go live in Hackney next June, but pilot schemes have resulted in

'well documented reports of vulnerable residents feeling confused and distressed, a significant spike in rent arrears and an increase in the use of food banks'.

In the letter, Mayor Glanville goes on to raise concerns about the support available to recipients, as the Council will no longer be able to access the Department for Work and Pensions system to find out about residents' claims and offer specific advice.

Drop planned rise in business rates, Council tells Chancellor

THE Government has been urged to drop a planned rise in business rates and offer more support to those already struggling to manage the hikes rolled out this year.

As a result of the Government's revaluations, which went live in April, Hackney's businesses experienced an average rateable value increase of 46 per cent, the largest in London and five times the England average. On top of this, the annual inflationary rise to business rates next April is expected to be 3.9 per cent, considerably higher than recent years.

Cllr Guy Nicholson, Cabinet Member for Planning, Business and Investment, said: “We urge the Chancellor to rethink the hike of 3.9 per cent and consider more the medium and long-term sustainability and growth of local businesses and economies.”

Protecting homes

RESIDENTS are being urged to protect their homes as the nights draw in.

Over the past 12 months, there has been a 6.7 per cent increase in burglaries across London.

Cllr Caroline Selman, Cabinet Member for Community Safety and Enforcement, said: “The police and Council work hard to reduce the number of burglaries. Hackney's Safer Neighbourhood Board is continuing this work in partnership with the police and the Council to raise awareness and hand out crime prevention equipment in wards affected by burglary.”

A police officer gives advice to a Lea Bridge resident

Prevent break-ins Helpful tips to deter thieves

There are a few simple steps that residents can follow to prevent break-ins:

- Don't advertise goods. Always keep valuables like tablets and laptops out of sight from windows, keep bikes locked up if they're stored in a communal area and store keys away from the letterbox
- Help police identify stolen property by using a property marking kit and taking photos

- Buy a safe or consider using other safe storage providers
- Lock all windows and double lock doors when going out, even if it's only a few minutes
- Make homes look occupied: use timer lights when the nights get longer, and cancel deliveries if going away

- Make sure locks on windows and doors are strong enough to keep burglars out
- Keep gates, sheds and garages locked and don't leave tools lying around as they can be used to break in
- Keep hedges at the front low and install outside lighting
- Install trellises and spiky plants to stop burglars from climbing over fences

Never forget

The procession made its way from the Town Hall to St John-at-Hackney Church for the service

RESIDENTS joined ex-service men and women to commemorate those who died in the two world wars and later conflicts at the borough's Remembrance Sunday parade and church service.

The Speaker of Hackney, Cllr Soraya Adejare, and the Queen's representative to Hackney, Lt Col Morris, were part of a procession of 680 people from the town hall to St John-at-Hackney Church on 12 November.

The parade was led by the Jewish Lads and Girls' Brigade band and people of all faiths and backgrounds who gathered to take part, including representatives from the Normandy Veterans; Royal British Legion; reservists; military cadet forces; scouts, police, fire brigade and Red Cross.

On arrival at the church, the Speaker laid a wreath at the Cenotaph to commemorate those who lost their lives during military service. Faith leaders from across the borough gave readings, before all paid their respects during two minutes' silence.

"There are many local families who have been affected by war and the bravery and sacrifice of those who served during the world wars, and all conflicts that have taken place since, must not be forgotten."

Lt Col Morriss added: "Thank you to all those who attended and joined us in honouring the multitude who have paid the ultimate sacrifice in the many conflicts in which this country has been engaged over the past 100 years. Although there is no one alive now who lived and fought in the First World War, there are few among us who have not been touched by the effects of war and conflict since.

"The purpose of the day is not just to remember, but to impress on our minds the horrors of war in the hope that we might avoid the mistakes of the past."

Remembering Hackney-sponsored HMS Ibis

THIS year marks the 75th anniversary of the sinking of a Hackney-sponsored warship during the Second World War.

HMS Ibis, pictured right, sunk off the coast of Algeria after taking a hit from enemy aircraft on 10 November 1942. The ship was adopted by the former borough of Stoke Newington, now within the London Borough of Hackney, during the 'Warship Week' campaign, when the Government lobbied local community groups to help purchase ships and quickly replace those lost to enemy action. As well as paying for the building of the ship, residents would provide crews with hand-knitted gloves, scarfs and hats.

Close to 10,000 young people access Hackney Music Service provision every year

DID YOU KNOW?

A PACKED out Hackney Empire enjoyed performances by some of the best young musical talent in the borough at the annual Music Service Gala.

Around 400 performers, from 40 schools, took part in the event on 2 November, which also hosted the fifth annual Mayor's Music Awards, which celebrates the most promising musicians in the borough.

Stuart Wilkinson, Music Coordinator at Sir Thomas Abney Primary School, picked up the award for excellence in music education practice.

He said: "This award highlights and recognises the hard work that has gone into music education over the past five years. With the support of Hackney Music Service and partners we aim to expand the musical pathways for our pupils and support their musical and social development."

The gala included performances from borough-wide ensembles, orchestras and choirs, as well as school groups and partnerships.

The music ranged from collaborative musical theatre pieces with the Junior Hackney Borough Youth Choir and Hackney Training Orchestra, to a cappella singing from Rushmore, Queensbridge and London Fields primary schools. There was also a great rendition of En Vogue's 'Don't Let Go' by singers from Hackney New School, and a jazz collaboration between Hackney Creative Jazz Ensemble and The Bridge Academy on their version of Chick Corea's 'Spain'.

Rachael Adediran, Head of Music at Skinners' Academy, said: "I just wanted to say how excited I am that our music department won the Ensemble Development Award. The whole team

By Harriet Worsley

HAVEN'T always lived in the best neighbourhoods, but growing up, I was always able to be friends with everyone, get respect and not get involved in the bad stuff. And that's all down to martial arts and the discipline it gave me," says Michael Page.

The kick boxer, karateka, super middleweight boxer and welterweight mixed martial artist was born in Paddington but moved to Hackney this year.

"I love it," he says. Adding: "It's a really upbeat neighbourhood. There's so much to entertain you. Plus, I'm a foodie, and Hackney is full of great food."

Not that he can always make the most of it. Because Michael 'Venom' Page has won 10 world championships in kick boxing, become one of the biggest names in mixed martial arts and this year added boxing to his stellar CV. Fighting at this level, he explains, involves 'a full on, full-time schedule. If you want to take it to the next level, you've got to make sacrifices elsewhere: from what you eat, to your social life'.

It's a lifestyle he knows better than most. Both his parents were Kung Fu practitioners and by the age of three, Michael and his nine siblings were all enrolled in classes.

He says: "We were learning to kick and punch pretty much as soon as we were walking and talking."

It was the late 1980s and: "Martial arts movies were the big thing, they were on every Friday night.

"My whole family, uncle and aunts too, were all practicing traditional martial arts. My father trained all 10 children.

"So, my first sparing partners were my brothers. My dad would say 'you're not brothers on the mat. But as soon as it's over, I expect you to pick each other up'."

Today, he traces much

Fighting to the top

Hackney resident Michael 'Venom' Page has won recognition as a kick boxer, a mixed martial arts fighter and a boxer

Curriculum Vitae: Michael 'Venom' Page

- 1987 Born in Paddington
- 1998 Gold medal at the US Open ISKA World Martial Arts Championship, aged 12
- 2007 Gold medal at the WAKO World Championships
- 2009 Gold at the WAKO Austrian Classics World Cup
- 2012 MMA debut at UCMMA
- 2014 Confirmed he was no longer contracted with Super Fight League and signed an exclusive two-year, five fight contract extension with Bellator
- 2017 Signed a three-year, 15 fight contract with Hayemaker Ringstar and won his boxing debut against Jonathan Castano

“Don't wait speculating, just do it. Don't worry about impressing others and don't feel like you have to be perfect” of his success to those early lessons in respect and discipline.

He explains: "I was one of those kids with way too much energy. I tried every sport going: football, basketball, even skiing. I would never have been able to get a job that involved sitting behind a desk. But I had to learn how to channel all that activity."

Michael competed in his first kick boxing tournament at the age of five. By 13, he was entering adult kick boxing competitions, often training five hours a day, five days a week.

The determination and sacrifices paid off. He was crowned British champion over 25 times. Fighting in the US, and across Europe.

He says: "I got to travel all over the world, making amazing friendships with the men I would fight against, and it opened my eyes to all sorts of different cultures and experiences I never would have had otherwise."

In 2011, he decided to cross over into mixed martial arts, intensifying his regime and spending seven hours a day in the gym. His freestyle kick boxing style immediately drew attention, and soon he had built up an international reputation.

Michael, however, is not the type to rest on his laurels. This year, he signed a three-year 15-fight contract with Hayemaker Ringstar – founded by boxing star David Haye and promoter Richard Schaefer – making his boxing debut in October and winning a technical knock-out in the third round. Oh, and he is now beginning to build a film career too.

Where does he get his insatiable ambition?

"The best way to start anything is to jump straight in," he says.

Adding: "That would be my advice to anyone with an ambition, whether it's boxing or anything else.

"Don't wait speculating, just do. Be independent. Don't worry about impressing others, don't worry about how you might look and don't feel like you have to be perfect.

"Take that pressure off yourself, and trust the people around you to help you."

It's certainly worked for him.

Cinderella

Until 31 Dec, Hackney Empire, 291 Mare St, E8 1EJ

IT'S behind you! No, it isn't. But it is creeping up, so get your tickets for Hackney Empire's famed panto now.

This year, the award-winning team is staging Cinderella. And, as ever, there's a truly stellar cast. Stepping into Cinders' glass slippers is Aisha Jawando, who has previously appeared in West End productions like 'Fela', 'The Lion King' and 'Soul Sister'. Empire veterans Tony Whittle and Kat B are frolicking in frocks as the ugly sisters, while Susie McKenna makes a magically menacing return to the stage as Cinders wicked stepmother.

McKenna has also written and directed the show, with Steven Eldis creating an original score for a production that includes a flying horse and a pair of singing mice.

Expect goofing and glitter, singing, whooping, booing and a healthy dose of 'he's behind you!'

Cinderella is on at the Hackney Empire until 31 December. Tickets start at £10.

Competition*Win a family ticket to see Puss in Boots!

READERS are in for a purr-fectly magical Christmas treat with tickets up for grabs to the historic Hoxton Hall's festive panto. The classic fairy tale 'Puss in Boots' tells the story of Colin. Left facing a future on the streets of Hoxton, he receives news of his inheritance; his father's old tabby cat, affectionately known as Puss. How will Colin ever win the heart of Princess Alice? Will Queen Doris believe that Colin is 'the one' for her daughter? Will Igor the Ogre's henchman scupper Puss's plans for his master? Written and directed by Marc Day, who was also responsible for last year's 'Red Riding Hood' panto at Hoxton Hall, this production of a much-loved story promises to be jam-packed with music, dance, comedy and of course, audience participation.

'Puss in Boots' runs from 13 to 28 December and tickets are priced at £15.50 for adults, £12.50 for children and concessions. For more details and to book, visit: www.hoxtonhall.co.uk/puss-in-boots/

Eugene Onegin

22 Nov to 23 Dec, Arcola Theatre, 24 Ashwin St, Dalston E8

OPERAUPCLOSE could just as easily be called OperaUpsideDown, given the company's award-winning form for turning the artform on its head. Goodbye grand venues, period costumes and painfully expensive tickets. The company is staging a chamber production of Tchaikovsky's 'Eugene Onegin', inspired by Pushkin's original novel of the same name. This new English version, however, transposes the story of Tatyana's sexual awakening to the 1960s.

Ten singers and four instrumentalists bring this timeless coming-of-age story to life under the leadership of Olivier-award-winning librettist, Robin Norton-Hale; Glyndebourne director, Lucy Bradley; and renowned set designer, Rosanna Vise. 'Eugene Onegin' is on at the Arcola Theatre from 22 November to 23 December. Tickets start at £10.

Christmas Past

Geffrye Museum, 136 Kingsland Road, E2, Nov 21-Jan 7

WHEN is it ok to start celebrating Christmas? It's one of those topics on which no one can agree. However, in Hackney the answer is simple: when the Geffrye Museum's 'Christmas Past' exhibition opens.

This year, as for the past 25, the museum will be staging a tour through 400 years of festive celebrations in the home.

Authentic decorations, lighting, music and greenery will transform its period living rooms. There will be epiphany celebrations around a bonfire, winter street food, carol concerts, Christmas fairs and workshops.

It's also worth checking out decorations and gifts in the shop, and seasonal food in the café.

But this year will also be different. In January, the museum closes for two years, as it undergoes a huge renovation. So visit, not only to say goodbye to 2017, but to the museum as we know it. 'Christmas Past: 400 Years Of Seasonal Traditions In English Homes' is on at the Geffrye Museum from 21 November to 7 January. Entry is free.

DINERS enjoyed a free, three course meal in a fashionable Hackney restaurant and learnt how to prepare cheap, healthy meals.

The event, hosted by the Council at Winger & Mangle, on 1 November, was part of a new London-wide campaign called 'Small Change, Big Difference'.

It aims to help people eat things that are good for the environment and their bodies, and turn what they can't eat into electricity or compost by recycling it.

Research behind the campaign revealed that London households throw away almost 900,000 tonnes of food each year, with councils paying around £50million to dispose of it as waste.

Not only is this environmentally damaging, but families could save up to £60 a month by slightly changing the way they shop, prepare, store and eat food. Everyone can also help the environment by changing the way food is disposed of.

The Council also hosted a series of six free workshops at Made in Hackney and Redmond Community Centre. Participants learnt how to make a starter, main, side dish and dessert to eat after or take home. They also picked up tips on how to reduce food waste.

Cllr Feryal Demirci, Cabinet Member for Neighbourhoods, Transport and Parks, said: “Food can sometimes be functional and throw-away: a sandwich we grab and eat on the bus, or a salad we chuck in the bin because we forgot it was there. These events show people how simple ideas and small changes can reduce the environmental impact of the food we eat, save money and make us healthier.”

‘Drive and drop’ service zips in

A SCHEME to reduce the number of cars parked in Hackney's streets is being revved-up in the borough. Flex in Hackney is a 'drive and drop' service introduced by car club Zipcar. The scheme allows members to spontaneously jump into a car and drive one-way to a destination, where they can drop the car off in any one of thousands of approved parking bays in the capital. Cllr Feryal Demirci, Cabinet Member for Neighbourhoods, Transport and Parks, said: “Far too much of our public space is taken up by car parking. In Hackney, we already discourage people from owning cars through controlled parking zones and restricting parking for new developments, but we need to do more. Hopefully schemes like this, that save people money, will persuade more residents to get rid of their cars.” There are several car sharing options for residents, including DriveNow and Zipcar.

Schemes aim to cut rat running

SEVERAL streets around Frampton Park Road will be closed to through traffic in order to reduce rat running and improve air quality.

The Darnley Road/ Elsdale Street and Loddiges Road/ St Thomas' Square junctions will be closed, which will reduce pollution in surrounding residential streets.

The one-way section of Brenthouse Road between Darnley Road and Frampton Park Road will be reversed to allow vehicles onto Mare Street.

New trees and planting will be installed to make the area more pleasant and improve air quality, while junctions will be raised to allow step free crossing for pedestrians and to reduce vehicle speeds. Work began this month and is expected to be completed by February.

The junction at Loddiges Road will be closed to through traffic

Giant mural scoops Clean Up Clapton trophy

PUPILS from Northwold, Millfields and Al Falah primary schools were joined by the Speaker of Hackney, Cllr Soraya Adejare, for the annual Clean Up Clapton event at BSix College, E5.

The children, who had entered paintings in a competition on a clean environment theme, used 'grabbers' from the Council's cleansing department to pick up litter on 19 October.

A scarab machine cleaned leaves from streets. Local volunteers, police community support officers and environmental groups, meanwhile, ran stalls and handed out information on recycling, pollution control and sustainability.

A 7ft-long mural-style painting by pupils from Northwold School won the first ever Clean Up Clapton painting trophy.

The clean-up was followed by a 'Have Your Say' event in the college's lecture theatre.

The panel comprised of Cllr Adejare, Martin Jacobsen from Divest Hackney, Amina Khalid who works on inter-generational issues in the community, Denise Roulston from BSix, and was chaired by Cllr Michael Desmond.

By the day's end, no stone, leaf, or litter had been left unturned.

You might not love your old clothes any more, but someone else might.

So instead of throwing them in the bin, use our textile banks.

We even want things that can't be reused like worn out socks, tatty clothes and old bed sheets. 70% of items are sold to raise money for good causes. Everything else is shredded and turned into new items like cloths and blankets.

There are over 100 banks across Hackney.

'Exemplary' pupils

ST John the Baptist primary is celebrating after being rated as 'outstanding' by Ofsted, the Government's school inspection body.

The primary school, in Crondall Street, N1, impressed inspectors with its 'strong leadership', 'rich curriculum' and 'pupils' positive attitudes to learning'.

The Ofsted report stated: "Teachers are highly trained and use their skills to help pupils make outstanding progress in a range of subjects. Children are engaged in their learning because activities are well planned, interesting and based on the developmental needs of children. The children's behaviour is exemplary."

Headteacher Lucy Blewett said: "We are absolutely delighted with the report because it reflects the sheer hard work and dedication of all the staff, governors and pupils and the tremendous support we receive from our community."

"Being ranked as

Pupils at St John the Baptist were praised for their behaviour and positive attitudes, while the teachers were recognised for being highly trained and using their skills to help pupils make outstanding progress outstanding in all areas is a huge achievement and one that truly validates our mission statement, 'We Achieve, We Believe'."

"We are absolutely delighted with the report because it reflects the sheer hard work and dedication of all"

Cllr Anntoinette Bramble, Deputy Mayor of Hackney, added: "This is a fantastic result and a testament to the hard work of all involved."

"Hackney now has 18 primary schools rated as 'outstanding' and a further 35 rated as 'good'. Our children are outperforming the national average by every measure and, most importantly, children from all backgrounds are achieving great results."

"Congratulations to everyone at St John the Baptist."

Time to pick your school stars

THE search is on for the stars of the borough's schools. Parents, carers, governors and pupils have a chance to nominate a member of staff for an inaugural Hackney Schools Stars award.

Deputy Mayor, Cllr Anntoinette Bramble said: "Every year the Council and Hackney Learning Trust celebrate our amazing staff at the Hackney Stars awards, but this year we want to open this out to schools staff. Our parents, guardians and children know who those shining stars are in our schools, as they interact with them every single day.

"Please take the time to nominate your unsung heroes who tirelessly work to achieve great results or deliver special care to you or your children."

The categories are: teacher of the year; Hackney schools star (for all non-teaching support workers); lifetime achievement award (for staff who have worked in Hackney for over 15 years).

To make a nomination online, visit: www.hackney.gov.uk/hackney-schools-stars; download a paper version, or call: 020 8356 3996. The deadline for nominations is midnight on 21 December.

Traineeship for care leavers

IN the 18th century, desperate mothers left their babies to be cared for at the Foundling Hospital. Now the Foundling Museum (pictured) is launching a ground breaking new programme for those who've been through the care system. 'Tracing Our Tales' is a three-year traineeship for care-leavers in Hackney, Islington and Lambeth. Developed by the Foundling Museum, it is designed to give them the skills to deliver workshops of their own devising at the museum.

Museum Director, Caro Howell, said: "Enabling vulnerable and marginalised young people to work alongside artists, to explore life's possibilities and to take ownership of the stories we tell is at the heart of our work and reflects the museum's historic DNA."

As well as offering paid employment, the programme aims to develop valuable skills for care-leavers, including public speaking and critical and creative thinking. Having faced similar life challenges, the workshops they devise will be aimed at those currently in the care system. For more information, visit: <https://foundlingmuseum.org.uk>

The Mayor and councillors

Councillors are elected by residents and serve for four years. The last borough-wide elections took place in May 2014.

Councillors have a range of responsibilities, including helping to oversee Council services.

They hold advice surgeries where residents can meet their local representative and ask them to take up issues of concern. Generally they can help with Council related matters, but if the issue is the responsibility of another person or organisation, councillors can often point people in the right direction and tell residents who they need to see.

Hackney has 57 councillors representing areas called wards – see map below.

MAYOR PHILIP GLANVILLE

Hackney's executive Mayor Philip Glanville was directly elected by the borough in 2016. He is the political leader of the Council, overseeing the budget and all Council services. The Mayor holds monthly casework surgeries in the Town Hall.

To book an appointment, e-mail: mayor@hackney.gov.uk; or call: 020 8356 3269. Residents are first encouraged to contact their ward councillor. Civic and ceremonial duties are undertaken by the Speaker of Hackney, who is chosen annually from the borough's 57 councillors. The current Speaker is Cllr Soraya Adejare.

Fish is a high-protein, low-fat food that provides a range of health benefits. This recipe is good way of spicing up a healthy dish that takes less than an hour to prepare and cook, so there's no excuse not to try it.

Fish curry

Makes 8 portions

Preparation time
30 mins

Cooking time
15 mins

Ingredients

- 6 white onions, finely sliced
- 25g brown mustard seeds
- 25g cumin seeds
- 3 bay leaves
- 1 cinnamon stick
- 200g butter
- 3 tablespoons tomato puree
- 2 tablespoons mild curry powder
- 1 tablespoon hot curry powder
- 1 tablespoon chilli powder
- 1 tin coconut milk
- 500g hake or other fish if preferred
- 500g basmati rice
- 50g coriander, finely sliced.

Method

- Place the sliced onions, brown mustard seeds, bay leaves, cumin seeds and cinnamon stick in a large pot and cook on a low heat until the onions are translucent
- Add the butter and when the onions are caramelised, add the tomato puree, curry powder and chilli powder along with a splash of water, and cook for further 10 mins
- Add the coconut milk and continue to cook for another 5 mins
- Cook the rice in boiling water for 7-8 mins
- While cooking the rice, add a few spoons of the sauce to a sauté pan with a little water and add the fish
- Cook on a low heat for 5 mins
- Strain the excess water from the rice and add the coriander and fish to the sauce.
- Serve and enjoy.

Proposed road closure to make school run safer

THE Council is consulting on another School Street scheme to close the road outside a Hackney primary during pick up and drop off times.

Under the proposals, the road outside Tyssen School in Stamford Hill will be shut to motorists during peak school run hours.

People who live or work in this section of Oldhill Street will be able to register for an exemption, so they can drive to their homes and businesses.

There is a history of road safety concerns in Oldhill

Street caused by congestion and poor driver behaviour, including people driving on the pavement. The road will also be made one way from Stamford Grove East to Feldman Close.

Cllr Feryal Demirci, Cabinet Member for Neighbourhoods, Transport and Parks, said: "Too many children in Hackney are driven to school. We're trying to make it safer and easier for children to walk and cycle to school. Shocking footage of cars driving on the pavement outside a primary school shows there is more to do."

To respond, visit: www.hackney.gov.uk/school-streets; or call: 020 8356 2897.

Consultation on private rented sector licensing schemes

ALL residents, landlords and businesses in the borough are being consulted on proposals to introduce two new licensing schemes for private rented accommodation.

There would be a scheme for houses in multiple occupation (HMOs) and for all privately rented properties in Brownswood, Cazenove and Stoke Newington wards.

TOWN AND COUNTRY PLANNING ACT 1990 (AS AMENDED)*THE HACKNEY (CURTAIN ROAD AREA) (STOPPING UP) ORDER 2017 TT1196

1. NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Council of the London Borough of Hackney on 17th November 2017 made an Order under Section 247 of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 (as amended) to stop up footways as described in Schedule 1 attached to this notice.

2. The title of the Order is The Hackney (Curtain Road Area) (Stopping Up) Order 2017.

3. A copy of the Order and the accompanying plan showing the lengths and areas of footways stopped up can be viewed between 9am and 5pm on Mondays to Fridays in the Visitors Reception Area, London Borough of Hackney, Hackney Service Centre 1 Hillman Street, London, E8 1DY. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Helpdesk on 020 8356 8991.

Schedule 1

Areas of Public Footway to be Stopped Up

In relation to the development at Curtain Road in order to construct the development in accordance with the approved plans (planning application 2015/3871 as amended). The building line of the development will re-establish the continuity of the streetscape on Curtain Road, Hearn Street, Hewett Street and Plough Yard. It will ensure that there is a footway of consistent width as the design for the new development ensures that the new and existing buildings will align, something which they currently do not do.

Curtain Road/Hewett Street - Area of footway measuring approximately 24.4m in length on curtain Road adjoining an area approximately 25.7m in length on Hewett Street (total area measuring approximately 109.1m)

Curtain Road/Hearn Street – Area of footway measuring approximately 38.5m in length on Curtain road adjoining an area 50.5m in length on Hearn Street (total area approximately measuring 114m)

Plough Yard – Area of footway measuring approximately 38.1m in length (total area measuring approximately 76.2 m)

Dated this 20th day of November 2017.
